

With the governments current ability to monitor and interact with PSTN and the ATM network activity provides a surreal amount of investigative power.

Considering that I myself am the Vice President of New York Network Security, I like to think that my ability to understand the need and the knowledge needed to protect the american homeland. There is one thing that I know can help the FCC and the FBI continue to conduct eavesdropping. No new law nor no more judicially sanctioned power is needed to circumvent the red tape of privacy.

Ask Me How...

Blake Cornell
VP New York Network Security
blake@nynetworksecurity.com
W:631-240-9683